 The NMS Implementation Process is divided into five stages. The Baseline Assessment Study and Baseline Study Report is the first stage in the implementation process.

Baseline Study Overview

- The Baseline Study of the 36 States is assessed using three parametres namely:

- c. Level of Implementation of the Law: assessment tool= Baseline Assessment Questionnaire and Interview questions.

- The Baseline Assessment Questionnaire contains 25 questions and it was administered to the 36 States of the Federation through the office of the Attorneys-General of each state.
- Collaborating with the nominees from the Ministries of Justice in each state we succefully got feedbacks from 14 states who collated data from the various agencies concerned.

Recommendations

- Attorneys-General of each state should establish a desk for criminal justice review. As states begin implementation of the ACJL, notes should be taken of provisions requiring improvement.
- There is need for sensitization of criminal justice actors and the public on the ACJL in each state.
- Need to promote and encourage synergy and cooperation amongst law enforcement agencies, ministries of justice, oversight bodies and the public. The public should be encouraged to actively participate in law enforcement like police community relations.
- Attorneys-General should acquire software for tracking the performance of prosecutors in courts. notably, Jigawa state is taking the lead on this.
- For accountability, statistics of arrests, cases and budgets in each state should be made accessible to criminal justice actors and the public.

- To prevent the loss of records, information should be saved both digitally on a server or hard drive and physically in fire proof facilities.
- Heads of institutions in each state should commence data collection.
- Lay prosecution should be discouraged in states. However, where it must be practiced, safeguards like quality control, supervision of prosecutors, prosecuting in teams(no personalization of case files), training of lay prosecutors and complaint channels( hotlines), WhatsApp groups should be used by the ministry of justice for effective oversight of lay prosecutors etc.
  should be in place.

Conclusion

The presentation shows that implementation of the ACJL in most states is weak. Adopting the National Minimum Standards for the Effective Implementation of the ACJA and ACJLs of each state will improve justice delivery and administration in Nigeria.
